How can ISMS control Information security risks?

An Information Security Management System (ISMS) is a systematic approach to managing an organization's sensitive information and protecting it from unauthorized access. It offers organized and thorough control techniques to help you recognise, evaluate, manage, and lower the risks related to information security.

Organisations may defend themselves using ISMS against hostile actions including hacking, data loss, and theft of private information. It may also serve as a reference for internal rules and practises and help ensure industry requirements are followed. Organisations may lower the risk of data loss or theft, defend against cyberattacks, and maintain a secure IT environment with the help of an effective ISMS.

ISO 37001: Anti-Bribery Management System-Benefits and Implementation

An ISO 37001 Anti-Bribery Management System (ABMS) provides a framework for organizations to control bribery. It helps organizations identify, assess and manage bribery risks and provides guidance on designing and implementing effective anti-bribery controls.

ISO 37001 standard comprises a collection of requirements that a company must adhere to to manage its anti-bribery systems. Bribery-related corruption is a threat, particularly for organisations that need to develop trust with their stakeholders to remain relevant.

An organization's particular bribery risks must be understood, and effective controls must be put in place to reduce those risks, according to ISO 37001, which takes a risk-based approach. To avoid bribery at all levels of their operations, the standard offers organisations a framework for establishing anti-bribery policies, processes, and controls.

Subject: Letter of Appreciation

It is a pleasure for us to write this note of Thanks to the entire SIS Certifications team - extending this word of appreciation to the GM Operations, the co-ordination and support teams, the auditors who have visited us for conducting audits pertaining to QMS (9001:2015), EMS (14001:2015), OHSMS (45001:2018).

We indeed want to make special mention of the guidance and unparalleled support extended to us for successful implementation of the newly introduced standard "Business Continuity Management System" covered as ISO 22301:2019. This gained momentum during the pandemic period and the SIS Team supported extensively in conducting the first witness audit at our premises in D-19, Sector 80 Noida.

Appreciate your continuous efforts in helping us strengthen our Quality Systems year on year.

Thanks and Regards
